ARTIFICIAL VISIONS

NAVIGATING THE INTERSECTION OF AI AND ART LIBRARIES

ANNUAL CONFERENCE 2024

PROGRAMME
Please note that the programme may be subject to minor changes.

Tuesday 2 July
11:00 - 12:30	Registration An opportunity to register, get your bearings, and grab a bite to eat before the conference begins.
12:30 - 12:45	Welcome address
12:45 - 13:30	Keynote Setting the Scene: AI and University of the Arts London Juliette Sargeant, Director of Library and Student Support Services, University of the Arts London
13:30 - 14:30	Panel Discussion AI and Supporting Art Practice: Challenges and Opportunities Pauline Van Mourik Broekman, Lecturer in Critical Media, University College London. Dr Erinma Ochu, Wallscourt Associate Professor in Immersive Media, University of the West of England & Co-founder and Creative Director of Squirrel Nation. Rowan Williamson (Panel Moderator), Associate Director Library Services and Support, University of the Arts London. Robin Leverton, Creative technologist, Goldsmiths, University of London.
14:30 - 15:00	Coffee break
15:00 - 16:00	Presentation From Algorithms to Attire - AI, the New Fashion Image, and Exploring Possibilities for Fashion Librarians Alexander Bell, Liaison Librarian, University for the Creative Arts
16:00 - 17:00	Presentation Ways of Machine Seeing: Learning Experiments in Computer Vision Discussion of a research project that aims to update methods of teaching and learning about AI and machine vision. Annie Davey, Lecturer in Art and Culture Education, University College London Dr. Dean Kenning, Research Fellow, Kingston University London
17:00 - 17:30	Break
17:30 - 19:00	Drinks reception

Wednesday 3 July
9:00 - 10:00	Registration
10:00 - 10:30	Presentation ARTificial Intelligence: Practical Lesson Plans and Theoretical Discussions on AI and Art How can art librarians prepare their students, and themselves, for a future where AI is a certainty when AI's current relationship to art is so uncertain? How can lesson plans and discussions engage art students with the ethics and implications of text-to-image AI models so that they can determine their own relationship to the technology? Stefanie Hilles, Arts and Humanities Librarian, Miami University
10:30 - 11:00	Presentation The Creativity Constraint: Do AI-generated Art Models Help or Hinder Creativity? Can popular AI art generation models enhance students' creativity or do they feel constrained by the AI? How might biases in AI limit the visual output generated by students and does the copyright and format of AI-generated art allow users to freely utilise the images in a creative manner? Kirsty Edginton, Systems Librarian, The Architectural Association
11:00 - 11:15	Meet the Sponsors
11:15 - 11:45	Coffee break
11:45 - 12:45	Presentation AI: Creative Agency, Accountability and Action An awareness about what copyright means in a fast-evolving digital space is vital to encourage ethical practice. How can experiential learning can be used to highlight legal and ethical considerations when researching, creating and using AI generated content? Roxanne Peters, IP Education Specialist, University of the Arts London Andrew Gray, Copyright Librarian, University of the Arts London

12:45 - 14:00	Lunch	Tours Central Saint Martins Library

14:00 - 15:00	Keynote Queering AI and Deepfake Drag Jake Elwes has been making art exploring the aesthetics and ethics of machine learning systems since the very first generative AI models in 2016. Their work calls for us to challenge who builds these systems and for what purpose, and whether we as artists and queers can reclaim these technologies to build our own digital utopias.

	Jake Elwes, Artist and Researcher
15:00 - 15:45	Workshop Part 1 - Introduction to the World of Wiki An introduction to Wikipedia, its context within other Wikimedia projects, tips on how to get started editing and discussion around how artists, art librarians and practitioners can benefit from engaging with Wikipedia. Jo Baines, Academic Liaison Librarian / Archivist, University College London Special Collections	Tours Central Saint Martins Library
15:45 - 16:15	Coffee break
16:15 - 17:00	Workshop Part 2 - Editing Wikipedia Get started editing, with an accredited Wikimedia UK trainer on hand to help set up accounts and advise on introductory activities. Participants are encouraged to bring ideas of topics they'd like to work on during the session but themes can also be selected on the day. A laptop is needed for this workshop. Jo Baines, Academic Liaison Librarian / Archivist, University College London Special Collections
17:00 - 18:00	Presentation The Sculptural Quality of the Codex Form in the Era of AI Rafael Klein creates short films which combine text and images from the original codex version of his artist books with photo-montage, animation, music and sound effects, the result being an extension of each book and a new digital artwork in its own right. Having used a range of source materials for previous films, for his most recent artist book, The Moth and the Flame, Klein used AI as a starting point. Rafael Klein, Artist
18:00 - 20:00	Conference Buffet and Quiz

Thursday 4 July
9:00 - 10:00	Registration
10:00 - 11:00	Keynote Transforming Cultural Heritage: AI in Museum and Library Documentation This talk will examine both the opportunities and challenges in using AI to improve documentation and accessibility of museum and library collections, with examples of ongoing projects from the V&A and the wider sector and lessons we can learn from them. Pam Young, Head Registrar (Documentation & Systems), Victoria and Albert Museum
11:00 - 11:15	Meet the Sponsors
11:15 - 11:30	Coffee break
11:30 - 12:30	Lightning talks 1. GPT and the Search for Scholarly Information (in the Arts) Rebecca Price, Architecture, Urban Planning, and Visual Resources Librarian 2. The Material Order and its potential with AI Mark Pompelia, Visual and Material Resource Librarian, Rhode Island School of Design 3. Generative AI art, visual literacy, and 'data poisoning' (Pre-recorded) Victoria Bennett, Architecture, Urban Planning, and Visual Resources Librarian, Tokyo Arts Council 4. Cataloguing and AI at the British Library Jeremy Jenkins, Curator of Emerging Formats in Contemporary British & Irish Published Collections, The British Library
12:30 - 13:00	Presentation AI and Art Libraries: Leveraging the Potential of an Art Library Collaborative (Delivered online) This conference proposal seeks to showcase CARTA's role in advancing collective art library impact through coordinated web archiving and digital art history professional development that integrates open machine learning and AI techniques, while also highlighting the importance of librarians and archivists in building datasets for computational use. Sarah Beth Seymore, Program Officer, Archiving and Data Services at Internet Archive
13:00 - 13:30	Presentation Lessons Learnt From Preparing Collections as Data: the UK Web Archive Experience

	An examination of the UK Web Archive's Datasheets for Datasets project as a pioneering initiative that integrates the critical role of librarians and archivists in the evolving landscape of artificial intelligence (AI). By adopting a method from the machine-learning field to improve the description and documentation of web archive datasets, this project not only enhances access to and understanding of digital collections but also provides a framework for addressing the broader implications of AI in library and archival practices. Nicola Bingham, Lead Curator, Web Archiving, The British Library Helena Byrne, Librarian, Web Archiving, The British Library
13:30 - 14:30	Lunch

14:30 - 15:30	Workshop AI: Learning You: An Interactive Workshop This is a workshop based upon a previously run workshop delivered to Media and Graphic Design students encouraging them to think about how AI datasets are created, labelled and categorised through the creation and curation of their own personal dataset. Lara Geary, Interdisciplinary Artist and Associate Lecturer, Graphic Media and Design, London College of Communication Andrew Gray, Copyright Librarian (UAL).	Workshop AI and art journals Informal exploration of using AI to engage with journal collections. Attendees will be encouraged (ahead of time if possible) to download free AI apps such as Google Lens on their devices, to interact with a variety of printed materials which we will make accessible. ARLIS Serials Committee	Tours Central Saint Martins Library

15:30 - 15:45	Coffee break
15:45 - 16:30	Discussion Delegates are invited to a participative discussion to reflect on the topics, ideas and working practices that have been shared by speakers over the previous three days. Talking points will also be picked up from the conference Padlet, which delegates will have been invited to contribute to during the conference. Chaired by Jo Baines, Academic Liaison Librarian / Archivist, University College London Special Collections.
16:30 - 17:00	Closing remarks Rowan Williamson, Associate Director Library Services and Support, University of the Arts London. Brett Moodie, Librarian, Cornwall College & Chair Elect of ARLIS UK & Ireland
17:00 - 19:00	Drinks
